

(Get free) Cross-Cultural Connections in Crime Fictions

Cross-Cultural Connections in Crime Fictions

From Palgrave Macmillan
*ebooks | Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook

 Download

 Read Online

2012-05-09 2012-05-09 File Name: B007ZQY02G | File size: 61.Mb

From Palgrave Macmillan : Cross-Cultural Connections in Crime Fictions before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Cross-Cultural Connections in Crime Fictions:

A collection of ten original essays forging new interdisciplinary connections between crime fiction and film, encompassing British, Swedish, American and Canadian contexts. The authors explore representations of race, gender, sexuality and memory, and challenge traditional categorisations of academic and professional crime writing.

'A wide-ranging collection of essays on crime fiction, television and film which makes valuable new contributions to its subject area. Its crossing of cultural boundaries and a particular focus on issues of spatial representation, generic hybridity and gender mark it as a welcome addition to its field.' - Peter Messent, University of Nottingham, UK
About the Author
CHARLOTTE BEYER Senior lecturer in English Literature at the University of Gloucestershire, UK
SUSAN BILLINGHAM Associate Professor in Canadian Studies at the University of Nottingham, UK
HILARY GOLDSMITH Instrumental Music Teacher by profession
GEORGE GREEN teaches in the Department of English and Creative Writing at Lancaster University, UK
LEE HORSLEY has taught in the Department of English Creative Writing at Lancaster University, UK, since 1974
BRAN NICOL Reader in Modern Contemporary Literature at the University of Portsmouth, UK
MARK NICHOLLS Senior lecturer in Cinema Studies at the University of Melbourne, Australia
STEVEN POWELL PhD candidate at the University of Liverpool, UK
CAROLINE ROBINSON Independent scholar with an interest in contemporary crime genres
DAVID SCHMID Associate Professor in the Department of English at the University at Buffalo in New York, USA