Thanks ever so much for making the digital version available. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Intermediate-level pieces for the lover of jazz/classic piano works By The bookish The bulk of the pieces in this collection can be played by a pianist of intermediate abilities (a nice gift from the composer Dave Brubeck). If you listen to the Nocturnes recording played by John Salmon, you WILL notice he improvises away from the score of each piece in this anthology (or, at minimum, improvises noticeably on SOME of them). But, overall, you can make these miniatures delightful even if you play them literally as is from the score. They are delicate, they are nuanced, they are often sparse and arguably simple. They are really little gems by the genius of a legend, Dave Brubeck. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Easy to play and very beautiful music By David A. Olson Brubeck's music is a fusion of classical and jazz composition.

He is readily understandable by those untrained in music. This particular group of pieces are easy to play, yet don't sound like baby pieces.

The 25 titles are: Audrey * Blue Lake Tahoe * Bluette * Chorale * The Desert and the Parched Land * Five for Ten Small Fingers * Going to Sleep * Home Without Lola * I See, Satie * Joshua Redman * Koto Song * Looking at a Rainbow * Lost Waltz (Edited Version) * Lost Waltz (Original Version) * Lullaby and many others!
